

RENEW Act

Responding to Emergency
Needs from Extreme Weather

Where will your county find the funds to recover from a storm like this?

Howard County is currently spending $228 million to reduce the volume of flooding in Ellicott City.

Heavier rains, more intense heat waves, and rising seas are expensive. County governments should not be left on the hook to cover the costs of upgrading storm water management systems, installing AC in public buildings, flood proofing infrastructure, and much more.

The Responding to Emergency Needs from Extreme Weather (RENEW) Act would provide dedicated funding to prepare for, and recover from the intensifying disasters of a warming world.

Contact Jamie DeMarco,
CCAN Maryland Director
jamie@chESApeakeclimate.org
(443) 845-5601

